

SUPREME COURT DECISION
No. 1686

In the Supreme Court of the State of Nevada.

Appealed from 1st. Judicial District Court, Lyon County.

C. F. Fox, Plaintiff &amp; Respondent.

Mrs. Harriet Bernard as executrix of the last will and testament of William M. Bernard, deceased, Mrs. Harriet Orth and J. C. Orth, Defendants and Appellants.

C. E. Mack and Geo. D. Pyne, Attys. for Respondent.

John Lothrop and A. Chantz, for Appellants.

Decision

On February 13, 1892, the plaintiff loaned $400 to William Bernard, now deceased, and to secure the payment thereof he deeded to plaintiff on that day the lands described in the complaint, and at the same time plaintiff executed to him a bond for a deed whereby he agreed to reconvey the property on or before February 13, 1898, provided that he was paid on or before that date $400, and also $36 annually. On February 8, 1896 plaintiff loaned Bernard the additional sum of $500 and accepted as security for $1000, and interest a deed made to plaintiff at the time the $400 was borrowed, and by release made in writing acknowledged and recorded, Bernard then relieved him from all obligations resulting from the bond made February 13, 1892, and thereupon plaintiff executed to Bernard a new bond, dated February 8, 1896, conditioned that plaintiff would make and deliver a good and sufficient conveyance of the property to Bernard, provided plaintiff was paid $1000 on or before January 1, 1900 and also $30 annually, and further provided that if Bernard paid these amounts and the taxes he would be entitled to the use and possession of the premises A receipt and the statement or admission of Bernard a short time before his death indicate that the only payments were on interest to the 5th day of February 1897. He died the following year and letters testamentary were issued to his widow Mrs. Harriet Bernard who has since married C. J. Orth. Plaintiff's demand arising out of the above transactions was presented against the estate and by her as executrix was rejected on August 29, 1898. There is testimony indicating that she had previously recognized the demand by endeavoring to borrow money for its payment. On July 24, 1901 the property was set over to her by decree of distribution. From a judgment decreeing the deed to plaintiff to be a mortgage and ordering a foreclosure and sale of the premises to satisfy the amount, $1731.25 and $76.40 costs, found due to plaintiff, she appeals.

The well settled doctrine that a deed executed merely for the purpose of securing a debt will be construed as a mortgage is not assailed, but for appellant it is contended that as suit was not brought until April, 1904, more than six years after the last loan and the giving of the last bond on February 8, 1896, and more than four years after the time, January 1, 1900 fixed for a conveyance thereunder conditioned on payment, the action is barred by the statute of limitations. It is said that by executing a written release of the first bond and accepting a new one instead, at the time he borrowed the last amount, $600, Bernard did not sign any writing agreeing to pay or acknowledging a debt, and that therefore the obligation to pay on his part was merely verbal and would be barred in four years. We do not so view that transaction. Most instrument in daily use, such as deeds mortgages, notes, orders, drafts and checks are signed by only one of the parties, but are not for that reason verbal nor half verbal. Although Bernard executed no note or writing agreeing to pay any money, he signed a deed absolute in terms conveying the property to plaintiff, and by this suit and the decree no more is sought than he under his signature obligated himself to yield. In equity the extension of the time for a reconveyance by plaintiff, given by the surrender of the first bond and the execution of a new one ought to be considered as effective as if plaintiff had conveyed the property to Bernard and taken a new deed from him, which would have left the title in plaintiff as it now stands. It was not necessary to have these extra deeds and if they had been executed they would not have varied the time for bringing suit and the initiation of the running of the statute which was controlled by the last bond and the date therein fixed and extended for payment and reconveyance.

Plaintiff is furnished with a writing for all that is awarded him by the judgment and for more if the property is worth more.

The loan and giving of the security which vary the unconditional terms of the deed, and which are shown verbally, are facts favorable to appellant which it would have been incumbent upon her to prove if plaintiff had sued in ejectment for the property and introduced the deed. The bringing of the action four years and four months after January 1, 1900, the time fixed in the last bond for a reconveyance conditioned on payment, was not too late.

It is also urged that suit was not begun within the time required by the provisions of the Probate Act after the rejection of the claim by the executrix. Whether this is so is immaterial for although she as executrix is named as a party defendant, the allegations of the complaint and the decree may be considered as running against the property only. No judgment for any deficiency after sale or otherwise against the estate is demanded or given by the decree, which is directed only against the premises and plaintiff's rights to this extent would not be curtailed nor affected by failure to present a claim to the executrix, nor by her rejection of the claim filed, nor by his omission to sue within the time prescribed for commencing actions on rejected claims against estates of deceased persons, as is necessary when it is desired to reach the assets of the estate.

In Cookes v. Culbertson, 9 Nev. 207, as here, a deed was given as security for a loan which was not evidenced in writing. It was said in the opinion "The remedy upon the debt is barred by the statute, but the debt was not thereby extinguished; and as the statute of limitations of this State applies to suits in equity as well as actions at law, the creditors could have enforced payment by foreclosure of the mortgage within four years after the cause of action accrued. He had two remedies, one upon the debt, the other upon the mortgage; by losing one he does not necessarily lose the other." Since the rendition of the decision on the time for commencing actions on written instruments has been extended from four to six years and under well recognized principles plaintiff was allowed that length of time after the date fixed for payment of the $1000 and for the termination of the bond or a reconveyance, which was January 1, 1900. As said in Borden v. Clow, 21 Nev. 278, "It is a rule in regard to the statute of limitations that the statute begins to run when the debt is due and an action can be instituted upon it." Under the argument for appellant the four years from the final loan on February 8, 1896 to the time for payment of the $1000 under the bond on January 1, 1900, would be deducted from the six years allowed for bringing suit, and on that theory if the maturity of the loan had been more than six years, instead of four plaintiff's cause of action would have been barred before it accrued.

The judgment of the District Court is affirmed.

SUPREME COURT DECISION
No. 1681.

In The Supreme Court of the State of Nevada.

William J. Brandon, Appellant, vs. N. H. West, as Administrator of the Estate of B. C. Clow, Deceased, et al., Respondents.

Messrs. Mack and Farrington, for Appellant

Messrs. Cheney and Massey for Respondents.

From the 2nd Judicial District Court Washoe County.

On Petition for Rehearing

The respondents petition for a rehearing in this action, or modification of the order entered therein, on the following grounds: That no appeal was ever taken from the judgment herein; that the only appeal which was taken was from the order denying plaintiff's motion for a new trial, and the jurisdiction of this court is limited to affirming or reversing that order; and that the order entered directing judgment for plaintiff is not warranted even had an appeal been taken from the judgment.

It is contended that the record on appeal does not contain the judgment roll and, consequently, that there can be no appeal from the judgment.

The notice states that the appeal is from the judgment, as well as the order denying the motion for a new trial. The undertaking on appeal is conditioned for the payment of costs on appeal from the judgment. The transcript is entitled: "Statement on Motion for New Trial and Appeal." Copies of all the papers required under Compiled Laws Sec. 3390 to be embodied in the judgment roll, with the exception of the summons, are contained in the transcript. There was no motion made to dismiss the appeal from the judgment because of any alleged defect therein, nor was the sufficiency or regularity of the appeal questioned upon the presentation of the cause. The case was briefed, argued and presented as though the appeal was entirely regular. Its sufficiency, therefore, cannot now be questioned upon petition for rehearing.

It is urged that this Court, in any event, ought not to have directed that judgment be entered in favor of the appellant, upon reversal of the judgment, but that all that was proper to be done under such circumstances, was the granting of a new trial, the rule being, "that where there is an issue upon material facts, which may possibly be decided in more than one way on another trial, there should be a new trial ordered on a reversal of the judgment."

Upon the trial of this cause the respondents offered no evidence, they submitting the case upon the testimony offered by the plaintiff. The court ordered judgment in favor of Defendants. Findings prepared by defendant's counsel, which negated the allegations of plaintiff's complaint that there was a sale of the land described therein, were approved by the court. Counsel for the plaintiff moved to strike out the findings so allowed and made request for certain other findings. Upon the hearing of this motion and request, the court made, among others, the additional finding relative to the sale of the land to the plaintiff and the right or license to remove the same, in pursuance of which finding judgment was ordered by this Court to be entered in favor of appellant. Counsel for respondent though participating in this hearing, may not have been called upon to except to this finding, if objections were had thereto, but, in any event, no objection was made or exception taken. In plaintiff's assignments of error in his statement on motion for a new trial and appeal the point is twice made that it was error in the Court not to give plaintiff judgment in accordance with this finding. Counsel for appellant in their opening brief take the position that they were entitled to judgment at least to the extent of the sand and the exclusive license to remove the same as found by the trial court. They close their brief with the following paragraph:

"Wherefore plaintiff and appellant prays that, inasmuch as all the evidence is before the court the judgment be modified by directing the defendants to execute a deed of said property to plaintiff; and should the court find that plaintiff is not entitled to the relief prayed for in the complaint, but is entitled to the lesser relief of a deed to the sand and exclusive rights to remove the same, that the judgment be modified accordingly."

It will be seen, therefore, that whether judgment by this Court should be ordered entered in favor of the plaintiff upon the findings as they stood was squarely before the Court. There was no intimation in respondents' brief that in the event this Court should conclude that the finding as to the sale of the sand was supported by the evidence and that the trial court should have given judgment to that extent in favor of the plaintiff, that this Court ought not to make an order directing such a judgment to be entered instead of remanding the case for a new trial. There was no suggestion that, in the event this Court agreed with the contention of appellant that judgment should have been entered in favor of the plaintiff upon the findings, that a new trial should be ordered so that the defendants might have an opportunity to offer evidence upon the issues or that they had any evidence that might be so offered.

Counsel for respondents in the presentation of this case upon the hearing on appeal took the sole position that under the pleadings, findings and evidence the appellant was entitled to no relief whatever. Although counsel for appellant was asking that judgment be ordered entered in favor of plaintiff in accordance with the finding relative to the sale of the sand, this finding is no where directly attacked in respondents' brief; in fact it is not denied that the evidence was sufficient to establish a sale of sand and a license to remove the same, although it was and is claimed that the proofs as to the limits within which the sand might be taken were too indefinite.

Under this state of facts, we think the contention now made for the first time, that the course pursued by this Court was not a proper one, also, comes too late. It is the rule that no new ground or position not taken in the argument submitting the case, or question waived by silence, can be considered on petition for rehearing. Powell vs. N. C. O. Ry. Co., 28 Nev. 82 Pac. 97; Beck vs. Thompson, 22 Nev. 421.

It was contended by counsel for respondent upon the presentation of this case and is again urged in the petition for rehearing that there was no satisfactory proof of the boundaries of the land referred to in the complaint and within which the sand has been held to have been sold to the plaintiff. This point was considered although not referred to in the original opinion. There was testimony to the effect that two of the sides, the South and the East, were laid out in the presence of B. G. Clow and the plaintiff and at Clow's direction. Counsel in their petition now only contend "that the record on appeal, fairly considered, fails to show that the Western boundary of the land claimed by appellant was ever indicated or marked by B. G. Clow." As the land in question is triangular in shape, the establishment of two of the sides would necessarily establish the third.

The petition for rehearing is denied.
